The Pentastar is FCA's workhorse V6 — used across Jeep, Ram, Dodge and Chrysler for over a decade, which means parts and know-how are everywhere and cheap.

The one historical caveat — and why your year dodges it: the early Pentastar (2011–mid-2013) had a left-bank cylinder-head failure (rough running, ticking, misfire). FCA revised the heads with hardened valve guides/seats in summer 2012, and the problem is essentially gone on 2014–2015 builds. Your 2015 has the corrected head from the factory. (Early engines also got a 10yr/150k-mi head warranty — not needed here.)
Net: in 2015 trim, the 3.6 is regarded as a durable, 200k-capable engine.

★ Why I ranked this a STRONG pick

- Verified-good engine. The VIN decodes to the 3.6 V6 — a reliable, parts-everywhere motor in its sorted-out 2015 form. No CVT, no oil-burning 4-cyl, no spark-plug-ejecting V8.
- Best towing in your budget. ~6,200 lb properly equipped — comfortably covers "occasional towing" (small trailer, boat, camper) where compact SUVs top out around 1,500–3,500.
- Built for Michigan. Real 4WD + weight + ground clearance = genuinely capable in snow, unlike a FWD crossover.
- Comfortable daily. The Limited trim is well-equipped and quiet — a real commuter, not a penalty box.
- Priced right & local. ~$10k for a Limited 4x4, and this one is a 2-hour drive — you skip the shipping the cheaper out-of-state examples need.

⚠ Honest caveats — read before you drive out

- 139,198 miles. This is not the 93k-mile example I originally flagged (that one is in Albany, NY and would need shipping). At 139k it's higher-mileage — fine for this engine, but price/inspect accordingly.
- Not one-owner. Driveway does not show a single-owner flag — pull the CARFAX (button below) for owner count, accidents and service history before committing.
- WK2 things to inspect: the TIPM (electrical module — more a 2011–13 issue but check all electronics), the Quadra-Lift air suspension if equipped (costly if leaking — confirm it raises/lowers evenly), 8-speed shift smoothness, and the oil-cooler/filter housing for leaks.
- At 139k, budget for wear items: suspension bushings/struts, brakes, fluids (transfer case & diff), and tires.
